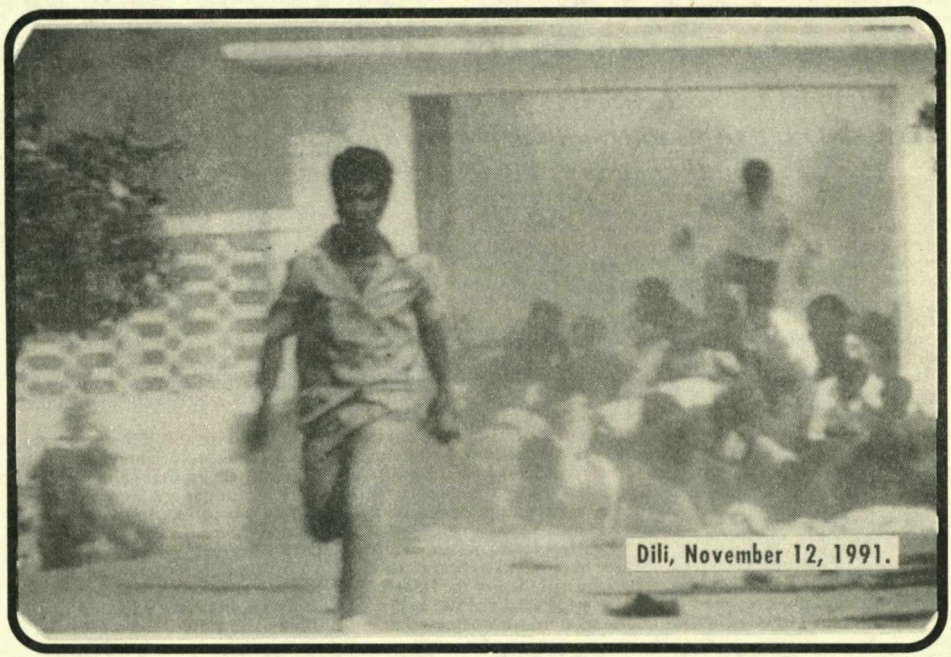
ONE YEAR LATER IN EAST TIMOR ONLY THE CAMERAS HAVE STOPPED SHOOTING



12 months after the Dili massacre, East Timorese who call for freedom still face death at the hands of the 10, 000 Indonesian soldiers who have occupied their country.

Australia is prolonging the bloodshed by:

1. Giving recognition to Indonesia's annexation of East Timor;

2. Joining Indonesia in the piracy of East Timor's oil;

3. Not calling for peace talks without preconditions under UN auspices.

The result, as we have seen, is that the East Timorese cannot speak out without being murdered ..... their blood is on our hands.

Join Melbourne's East Timorese community in the Flagstaff Gardens for speakers, street theatre and a march from the corner of William and Dudley streets in the city, through Victoria Market and the Bourke Street Mall, to the Garuda Airlines office. Please wear black.
